

May 8, 2012

Four years ago Dennis Hengel undertook a major renovation to our home in which several rooms were converted into a master bedroom suite. Our house was originally built in 1967 and the problems that renovating an older house entailed, were tackled and solved creatively and effectively. Design ideas were implemented and in some cases improved upon.

The quality of the workmanship was outstanding. When Dennis said something would happen on a certain date, it did. In a couple of cases where timelines were extended, we were advised well in advance.

The sub trades that Dennis employed showed up when they were supposed to, provided excellent service and quality workmanship.

Dennis and his crew were a pleasure to work with, always considerate of our needs, unfailingly helpful and courteous.

This year we decided to extend a sun deck and replace some windows, a small reno by comparison to our first one. However, the attention to detail and the commitment to quality is as evident this time as it was with our major renovation of some years ago.

Any future renovation on our home, or future building projects we have, will be done by Dennis Hengel and Hometown Enterprises. They are a real pleasure to work with.

Pat and Whitney Bugey