To Whom It May Concern:

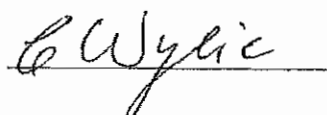

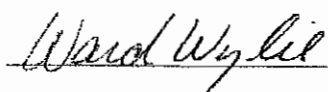

Dennis Hengel (Hometown Enterprise (1993) Ltd) was the general contractor who built our house at 9245 Chinook Road in Vernon, B.C. in 1994. It is a 3-storey house that is approximately 3,400 sq ft. It has a number of unique features that provided a challenge to Dennis. We are still in the house 11 years later. There have been no structural problems of any kind. We were, and continue to be, very happy with the quality of his work.

Dennis was personally responsible for the framing and finishing carpentry portion of the construction. He was also in charge of organising and supervising the tradesmen for the rest of the house. It is a well-built house. The sub contractor who installed the hardwood flooring marvelled at how square the house was. It had made his installation job much easier.

Dennis was a pleasure to work with right from the planning stage to completion. His personal attitude and professional standards helped us immeasurably in making the, at times, overwhelming decisions that have to be made while building a house. The house construction came in under budget, largely because of Dennis' good advice on how to get the best value for our money when compromises had to be made.

If we were to build another house our first choice for a general contractor would be Hometown Enterprise (1993) Ltd and we would highly recommend them to anyone.

Yours truly,
